City of South Bay Salutes The Corps

Commission debates leasing theatre to local promoter

By Debra Miller
Editor.

Pahokee resident Steve Wilkinson addressed the City of Pahokee Commission Tuesday night asking them to turn over management of the Prince Theater to him in his effort to promote tourism to the city.

Mr. Wilkinson is a promoter for Dot Wop City, an older music show, he has been putting together around the Lake.

"I request permission tonight to present a proposal to the city to take charge of, or what ever is available for the Prince Theater," said Mr. Wilkinson.

Vice Mayor Roy Singletary asked Mr. Wilkinson what he meant by taking charge of the theater and what plans he had for the theater.

Mr. Wilkinson said that over a period of three years a variety of shows will be produced at the theater. During the first year, one main show per month will be produced which will involve original recording stars from the past.

Other kinds of theatrical uses will be performed, he said, such as showing matinees and after school "B" movies. Talent shows and contests will also take place at the theater under his command. Seminars and many other uses will help make the theater available to local organizations, he said.

During the second year, Mr. Wilkinson said he plans to produce two main shows per month and by the third year he hopes to have a show each week.

"These shows will be enjoyed primarily by people from out of town and marketed up to a year in advance," said Mr. Wilkinson. "After three years of experience, investors will be sought after."

It was suggested the building be leased to Mr. Wilkinson. City Attorney Michael Stauder told commissioners if they are considering leasing the building they would have to put it up for bid.

Commissioners said they would be unwilling to give someone total control over a public building, but asked Mr. Wilkinson to write a proposal to present to the city outlining his plan. Commissioner Pete Moore also added that City Manager Ken Schenck took back over the last year to see how often the theater has been utilized.

"I would like to see us really look into this because I feel Mr. Wilkinson has some very good ideas here," said Mr. Moore.

In other business, the commission passed a proposal to allow Glades Computer Service to upgrade the City's computer system. The upgrade is needed to solve the year 2000 problem and so that the computers will be able to handle the new software which will be Y2K compatible. The total cost is $24,840.

Raider Rally planned for Saturday to recognize Glades Central's State 4A champs

Culminating a season characterized by come-from-behind victories, the Glades Central High School Raider football team came from behind in the last 20 seconds of the State 4A Football Championship game to beat the No. 1-ranked Madison County Cowboys 33 to 28.

On Saturday, Jan. 16, the Glades communities will celebrate this victory with a "Raider Rally" that will begin at 11:30 a.m. in the school's football stadium.

The Rally will be preceded by a motorcade through Belle Glade featuring the band's drum ensemble, cheerleaders, the State Championship team and coaches. The motorcade will begin at 10 a.m.

The Rally will feature a packed agenda of praise from several segments of the community including the presentation of a proclamation from the cities of Belle Glade and South Bay, presentations from community organizations, performances by the Glades Central "Maroon Machine" marching band and personal congratulatory remarks from Tampa Bay Buccaneers wide receiver and former Glades Central Raider, Reidel Anthony, as well as other former Raider football team members.

The Rally will end with lunch, principally sponsored by The Gents Club of Belle Glade in conjunction with the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative. A. Duda and Sons and several other businesses and organizations are also supporting the event. During lunch, the December 18th 4A championship game will be shown on a big screen television on the football field.

At the beginning of this unusual season, most fans attributed the team's victories to luck. "We had Brad Banks as quarterback for two years, and he was so stellar and efficient, we just didn't know who would follow him," said GCHS Assistant Principal Reginald Murray, who wrote a poem, read at the school's Jan. 4 faculty meeting to congratulate the coaches. "Then mid-season, they earned the name 'the Come-back Kids.' They never gave up. "And, unlike last year's team," Murray continued, "none of their victories were easy. That's why this championship victory is so profoundly special."

A large crowd is expected to attend the celebration.

For further information, please contact rally coordinator Carthela Mann at 939-4403 during school hours or 996-3230 after 4 p.m.

Five Pahokee students taking trip to Russia

Five Pahokee High School Seniors, along with their American History teacher, Christine McEntire, have agreed to participate in an exchange program with students from the newly Independent States of the former Soviet Union.

"This will truly be a once in a lifetime experience for all those involved," said Ms. McEntire.

The participants are Anthony Burgess, Jarvis Guley, Alishia Jennings, Amanda Murray and Christine Stevens.

These students have accepted the challenge of becoming ambassadors for their school, city, state and country.

Ms. McEntire appeared before the Pahokee

Chamber of Commerce monthly breakfast Tuesday morning with the students to explain the process of the exchange program.

"We will be going to Russia and several Russian students will be coming to Pahokee," said Ms. McEntire. "We plan on showing them around the area and plan a trip to Disney World."

Ms. McEntire said many of the local businesses have been very good about providing services to the school but they are asking for donations.

Anyone interested in donating money for the exchange program can contact Pahokee High School.

City officials want united effort to spruce up Belle Glade

By Brenda Bunting
Editor

Belle Glade City officials held a special meeting last week to talk about cleaning up and beautifying the city.

Mayor D. Bill Mathis said, "One of our priorities is cleaning up Belle Glade." He said several citizens have approached him about unsightly areas in town and wanted to know what could be done about the problem. They said they would like to see areas block cleanups where different groups adopt an area and see to it that it is cleaned up periodically.

The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce was represented at the meeting and Executive Director Danielle Penail said, "This is a long time endeavor.

I believe the business community will participate and we will help get the word out."

Commissioners heard ideas from Malissa Booth, executive director of "Keep Palm Beach County Beautiful," formerly known as Beautiful Palm Beaches. Their motto this year is "Clean it up, fix it up, keep it up."

She said matching grant funds are available for Belle Glade's effort, and since April is Earth Month and Keep America Beautiful Month, she suggested the city plan for a April 3 clean up day.

The primary focus will be cleaning up public areas and painting over graffiti as well as putting in some shrubbery and local residents and non-profit organizations are encouraged to help.

Each non-profit organization would be eligible to receive 30 gallons of free paint to help in the effort and all volunteers would receive trash bags, gloves and possibly free t-shirts for the clean up day.

"You know what areas of your city need work," she said. "We've found that cleaning up and fixing up takes care of a lot of community problems," she noted.

Fujita wrote the book on tornadoes

By Mike Lyons

I only talked with Ted Fujita on one occasion. It was about a month after Hurricane Andrew roared through southern Miami-Dade County. Fujita had taken a tour of the damage area and was preparing to issue a report. He presented his findings to a weather convention in Chicago.

I called Fujita because I wanted a copy of his report. He told me that he didn't have a copy because the entire report was "in my head."

I shouldn't have been surprised because what was in his head changed the course of meteorology. Ted Fujita, the meteorologist who devised the standard for measuring the strength of tornadoes and discovered microbursts and their links to plane crashes, died late last year.

"Ted's achievements were so fundamental and so frequent that it is hard to imagine where severe storm meteorology would be today without him," said Tom Grazulis, the Director of the Tornado Project, an ongoing research effort into tornadoes based in Oklahoma.

Born in 1920 in Japan, Fujita came to the United States in 1953, joining the University of Chicago as a research associate. Almost immediately, he began to make a difference.

He began analyzing single thunderstorms the way larger systems had been studied for years," said Grazulis. "He saw them as individual weather systems, which he called mesocyclogenesis."

He introduced the concept of tornado families, which are made up of individual tornadoes, each with a unique path, but spawned by the same thunderstorm. Prior to Fujita, long damage paths were usually considered to be made by a single tornado.

He figured out how thunderstorms worked coming up with terms like "wall cloud," said Grazulis. "He saw in these storms things we take for granted today but it took a genius to see them for the first time."

In the 1970s, Fujita revolutionized tornado climatology by creating a system that linked damage and wind speed. Before the Fujita Tornado Intensity Scale, all tornadoes were counted as equals.

The term "F5" is used casually by the general public and in movies," said Grazulis. "Without Ted, one can only guess if there would be any system at all."

A few years later, Fujita turned his focus to related aircraft disasters, discovering microbursts - sudden severe downdrafts from thunderstorms that can produce winds up to 150 mph.

"At long last, we had a way to distinguish tornado damage from damage of non-tornadic winds," said Grazulis.

Fujita blamed a microburst for the 1975 Eastern Airlines Flight 68 crash at New York's Kennedy Airport. The discovery, controversial for years before it became accepted among meteorologists, led to installation of Doppler radar at airports to improve safety.

"One of Ted's forte's has been to make it 'look easy,' to take the most bewildering assortment of damage and wind, and make such simple sense out of it," said Grazulis. "That ability is the mark of a true genius."

I had a brief glimpse of that genius during my phone conversation with Fujita. He patiently explained his research of Hurricane Andrew, answering each of my questions completely.

It was a short conversation - Fujita had more work to do but it is one I will never forget.

Want the freshest vegetables? Pick your own

By Katrina Elksen,
Contributing Editor

Pick farm, you might want to check them out. You can usually find them by watching for signs along the roadside. Or check with your local Chamber of Commerce for farms in your area.

A U-Pick farm is the perfect alternative for those who love really fresh vegetables but don't have the time, energy or space to grow their own.

U-Pick prices are usually much lower than prices at the grocery store. That's because you're cutting out a lot of the middle men. The U-Pick farm doesn't have to pay anyone to pick, package or ship the produce.

For example, tomatoes are selling for $1 a pound or better at most supermarkets. At a U-Pick I visited recently, tomatoes were 79 cents a pound or $10 a bucket. The "bucket" will hold about 25-30 pounds of tomatoes, so that really brings the price per pound down. Of course, prices vary from farm to farm so check it out before you start picking.

Gathering your own produce at a U-Pick also means you can be very particular about your vegetables and fruits. You can choose each item with care.

Going to a farm is also a great way to teach children about where food comes from and get them interested in nutrition. Children are often more likely to eat, or at least try, vegetables they picked themselves. A trip to a U-Pick can be a wonderful family outing for small children. Finding ripe tomatoes is a little like searching for Easter eggs.

Before setting off for a U-Pick farm, make sure you go prepared.

- Check the grocery store prices, first, so you'll know if you're getting a bargain.
- Wear appropriate clothing and shoes for walking around in a garden.
- Put on plenty of sunscreen. After all, we do live in Florida. Anytime you are going to spend more than a few minutes out of doors you should put on sunscreen.

- Grab a sun hat and sunglasses. Sunscreen is good protection but not complete protection.

- Bring along gardening gloves. Some plants have rough leaves that can irritate sensitive skin.

- Bring along a small clipper or knife to cut the stems of vegetables such as okra or green peppers.

- If you have a small basket suitable for gathering produce, it can be helpful. That way, if you are picking a bucket of tomatoes, you can leave the bucket at the end of the row and make trips back and forth to it, rather than hauling the heavy bucket all over the farm.

When you arrive at a U-Pick, always check in with those running the farm. They can tell you the current prices, what the rules are for picking there, what's in season and where to find various kinds of produce. Don't be embarrassed to ask questions. If you've never seen an okra plant before, you might need some instruction on how to harvest the okra. They might also provide you with useful tips. For example, if you are picking a bucket of tomatoes, twist the stems off the tomatoes after picking them. If you stack tomatoes with the stems on, the stems can cut into other tomatoes.

All week people have been telling me about fresh produce they brought home from U-Pick farms. Tomatoes, strawberries, okra and peppers are in season.

Fresh vegetables are wonderful, because they are packed with vitamins and nutrients. They also have more flavor than the canned or frozen kind. The fresher the vegetable or fruit, the more flavor it has.

Dead man walking?

My question is: Is there any way you can find out how a person can keep driving a deceased relative's automobile. How could he get the registration and everything once the person is dead?

How can a person take a deceased person's tag and have it updated?

I really hope to see this in the next week's newspaper. Thank you.

Editor's note: If the current driver has not had the title transferred into their name and is renewing under false pretenses, this is illegal.

I suggest you call the Palm Beach County Courthouse and address your question to the tag office division.

Thank you for Speaking Out.

Potholes a hazard

I'm a concerned citizen calling about the potholes and the standing water in Fremd Village.

I think that it is a health hazard to the residents, particularly the kids. Not only does it harbor germs but a person could trip over these potholes and break a limb.

I'm hoping that someone in Fremd Village or the Pahokee Housing Authority can address this matter.

Thank you.

Responding to last week's Speak Out

"Good morning. This call is in reference to 'Education more important' in last week's Speak Out."

I agree that education is very important. I for one play a very aggressive role in my son's life, the educational as well as the social aspect of it, and this is not just lip service.

It is true, there are some parents in our community who do not play an active role in their child's or children's education, but there are a great deal who do.

Of course, we don't want any of our schools to appear on the critical list because our children scored poorly on the standardized tests, but let's be honest. The schools here can not compare to schools in Wellington, Royal Palm or even Boca Raton.

Let's also remember that in order for our children to succeed they will also need teachers who are really dedicated and care and not those who are standing at the gate when the bell rings at the end of the day.

That caller's response about academics being more important than athletics is appreciated, but it does not negate the fact that the Glades Central Raiders did not receive the proper recognition they so deserved.

Whether we want to believe it or not, our team did not receive the support that could have been given by the community.

Thank you.

H2A workers

"Can you find out how many H2A workers are working in the Glades in the sugar industry?"

I believe they should be able to find local help and do not need the H2A workers.

See if you can find out how many we have working in this area and let's see if we can put a stop to it because we don't need them."

Editor's note: I spoke with Greg Shell, an attorney with the Migrant Farmworkers Justice Program who has extensive knowledge about the H2A program.

He says there are only about a dozen H2A workers in the Glades and they are all from Australia. He said these workers come during season just to run and repair the harvesting machines that replaced all the H2A workers.

He says the harvesters were purchased in Australia and local companies hired them for their expertise in these machines.

Worse things going on

"I am concerned about what is being talked about on T.V. about the president."

Our children do not have role models and there are worse things going on than just sex and lies. What about our kids killing one another and our older people and the dope that is available?"

Did the president start all that? If it was not for sex, no one would be here to have sex."

UF researcher finds pain-free way to increase walking distance

By Kristin Harmel

When 71-year-old Verlon Gay first went to the Lifetime Cardiac Rehab Center in Ocala, he had just undergone bypass surgery followed by back surgery, and walking was causing him excruciating pain. It seemed he would have to give up living a life he was familiar with.

At the rehab center, he found a new program developed by University of Florida researcher Christine Stoppa. Today, Mr. Gay walks normally and in fact spends 40 minutes a day on a test to test the metabolic changes in the participants said the intense pain leads to a tremendous dropout rate among patients who need the treatment.

"Our women patients say that the pain of exercising past the threshold of pain is as intense as giving birth," said Prof. Scott, a senior research career scientist at Gainesville's Veterans Administration Medical Center. "No normal human being wants to push himself to this excruciating pain three times a week for the rest of his life."

Prof. Stoppa has implemented a program that is virtually pain-free, and during the past six years, UF researchers have trained 49 participants for an average of 9.4 weeks each.

He is not alone. Similar programs are in place throughout Florida and as far away as Israel. Mr. Gay credits his recovery to UF researchers who have found a virtually pain-free way to increase the average walking distance of patients with inadequate blood flow to their legs by an average of 460 percent. That's more than twice the national average for similar treatments, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Think how we could change the way people exercise and feel about themselves," said Christine Stoppa, a professor in UF's department of exercise and sport sciences.

Prof. Stoppa has been conducting research since 1991 with patients who suffer from intermittent claudication, the development of pain in the legs due to inadequate blood flow. The method her team of researchers tested differs from the method generally accepted in the medical community.

"We're really trying to open some eyes here in the fact that this really is a neat approach and there really is a change," Prof. Stoppa said.

Intermittent claudication often is treated with an exercise program that requires patients to walk until they are in pain, rest for a moment until the pain subsides slightly and then walk again, despite the pain. UF radiology Professor Katherine Scott, who worked with Prof. Stoppa

"They are walking too fast for the available blood flow, which leads to painful symptoms. I'm trying to show that we can exercise these folks efficiently and with a lot less pain by using a lower endurance approach," she said.

Prof. Stoppa's study has been published in the Journal of Sports Medicine and Physical Fitness as well as Palaestra, a journal for people with disabilities. She currently is awaiting metabolic data on the patients from her most recent trial.

Prof. Stoppa said he hopes to start training programs for patients throughout the country as soon as possible. "Obviously, the motivational benefits invite serious consideration, but so do our data," Prof. Stoppa said. "I think there will be a lot of people smiling."

COMMUNITY FELLOWSHIP

SUNDAY: SCHOOL 10:00 a.m.
WORSHIP 11:00 a.m. & 6:30 p.m.
WEDNESDAY: BIBLE STUDY 7:00 p.m.
Pastor: Jean Ingram
(561) 996-5054

Rev. Jean Ingram stands in front of the new sign at Community Fellowship on State Road 880.

One definition of fellowship could be all the fellows in the same boat rowing the same way. Working together as a fellowship, and reaching out to the community with the Gospel, explains why The Church of God of Prophecy, 601 S.E. 12th Street, Belle Glade, has added Community Fellowship to the church name.

"The name change, definitely depicts our mission," says Rev. Jean Ingram, pastor of this congregation for 11 years. "We are a community church who cares for the unsaved and the hurting," said Rev. Ingram.

The people of Community Fellowship have ministered in community worship services, several city-wide crusades, served as chairpersons, ushers, counselors, choir members and other responsibilities. The pastor is also actively involved as secretary and treasurer of the Belle Glade Ministerial Association.

Lighthouse Cafe, an outreach for addicts, the hungry, and those in need of clothing here in Belle Glade is one of Community Fellowship's projects to which monthly offerings are contributed.

Community Fellowship extends a warm welcome to the community. "You will find a friendly, loving, full Gospel church, proclaiming the message of Jesus Christ to a hurting world," said Rev. Ingram.

For more information call 996-5054.

GLADES DAY GATOR TALES

By Donna Dixon & Farrah Shutt

Study...study...study

That's all Glades Day students feel like they've been doing all week due to semester exams. But the good news is that Monday, Jan. 18 is a holiday so everyone can rest their brains! The second semester begins Tuesday, Jan. 19.

Thanks to Coca Cola, GDS had the honor of holding an NFL Experience Field Day last Thursday, Jan. 7. Students earned this privilege by collecting the most Coca Cola labels (per student) in the month of December. We were one of the top two schools in Palm Beach County who qualified for the event.

Besides providing an awesome DJ, representatives from Coca Cola set up various football games and obstacle courses for students in grades 5-12 to try their hand at and Miami Dolphins defensive back Shawne Wooden visited with everyone, answering questions and signing autographs.

Elementary students are going to do their part to help the St. Jude's Research Center by participating in the St. Jude's Mathathon this month.

GDS students are asking donors for pledges of 3-10 cents or more for each math problem they complete. The Mathathon improves students' math skills and allowing them to help sick children get the research and treatment they need. You can do your share by signing up with an elementary student or call the school's office at 996-4140.

The fourth and fifth graders will be taking a field trip to the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center on Jan. 21 to see "Cinderella," performed by the fantasy Theatre Factory.

Admission for the play, which will take place from 9:15 to 10:45 is $3.

Report cards will be mailed out next week!!

MLK, Jr. Commemoration Ceremony in Pahokee

Concerned Citizens will sponsor the annual Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Commemoration Ceremony with the City of Pahokee and the Eboney Elite Ladies Society who will be in charge of the "Walk." The Walk will begin at 10 a.m. The lineup time is 9:30 a.m. at Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church. Come join us in making this the biggest Walk ever in the City of Pahokee. On arrival in the MLK Park a commemoration ceremony will be held.

PAC meeting at Pahokee High School

The Parent Advisory Council (PAC) will hold a meeting and luncheon at the Pahokee High multi-purpose room on Thursday, Jan. 21 from 10 a.m. until 12 p.m.

The topic will be remediation and will be explained by Ms. Veronica Shaw, Active Parenting Today.

All parents are encouraged to attend this important meeting.

Anyone requiring a ride can call Sabrina Brown at 924-5936, Kelli Burroughs at 924-5751 or G.C. Atkins at 924-6524.

COVE ELEMENTARY

CAT TALK

If you have a child entering kindergarten in the fall, we invite you to attend the Open House on January 21 from 9 until 11 a.m.

Cove Elementary is an International Studies Magnet that specializes in dual language. Our goal is to create an environment that promotes cross cultural attitudes while students become bilingual and biliterate.

If you have any questions concerning our magnet, please call Carmen Morgan at 993-1922.

Upcoming events include a Partners in Print on Jan. 26 at 6:30 p.m. and an SAC meeting on Jan. 28 at 6:30 p.m.

Cove is having a schoolwide competition to reach New Orleans for Mardi Gras to kick off our 1999 Field Day Event in February. Field Day will be a cultural sports experience of different countries with French as the basic culture.

Each class will choose a French country to study and make a flag to carry to the opening ceremony.

As an incentive, the top classes which had accumulated the most miles by the winter holidays received a special King Cake Party. The Mardi Gras cake was specially ordered from New Orleans, La.

The trip to New Orleans is 998 miles from Belle Glade. The winners from K-4th were Mrs. Prisco and Mrs. Garcia with 745 miles. The 5th and 6th grade winner is Mrs. Miller with 497 miles.

The first class to reach New Orleans by Mardi Gras will be honored at the parade to kick off Field Day. They will throw out beads and Mardi Gras coins to the students.

THE SUN, Thursday, January 14, 1999 - 7

Belle Glade Elementary Eagle News

Belle Glade Elementary is pleased to announce the winners of their schools Reading is Fundamental (RIF) Poster Contest.

The poster contest is designed to promote reading awareness for all ages. The theme this year was "Read With Me" and all students got the opportunity to participate in the preliminaries headed by Art Teacher, Ms. Karen Rogers. Drawings were then selected to be in the school's local contest. Final renderings were judged in the school media center by Mr. Vernon Dexter.

The lucky winner was Christopher Mendoza, age 10, in Ms. Barnard's fifth grade class. His poster was sent to RIF's National Headquarters in Washington, D.C. to see if it will qualify in the National Competition. We wish Christopher the best of luck! Other winners are Evelyn Hernandez, second place, Leticia Gomez, 3rd place and Juan Roa, Honorable Mention. Great BGE students!

Blue Devils beat Tigers in annual tournament

Although the temperature was below 60 degrees, the fans of both teams packed tightly in the Pahokee Blue Devils' Gymnasium eager to see who would win the annual game between the Blue Devils and the visiting Clewiston Tigers.

As soon as the whistle blew this was no way the Tigers could stop the Blue Devil especially with senior guard 69, Clewiston 41

Anquan Boldin scoring 15 points, 8 rebounds and having 4 steals.

Vandorra Sewell tried to help his team by adding 13 points on the score board for the Tigers, but senior guard Jacoby Alexander was determined for his team to win so he added 13 points and had 10 rebounds for Pahokee.

The final score was Pahokee 69, Clewiston 41

Outdoors woman workshops in February

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) will host two "Becoming an Outdoors-Woman" workshops on Feb 5 through Feb. 7 at the Everglades Youth Camp in Palm Beach County and April 16 through April 18 in Ocala. These workshops are for women interested in acquiring outdoor skills from fly-fishing and bird watching to deer hunting and camping.

The cost is $100, which covers food, lodging, materials and instruction. The workshop is limited to the first 100 people.

The program is primarily for women, 18 years-of-age or older, who want to learn outdoor skills associated with hunting and fishing, but it also includes training that is useful for many other outdoor pursuits," said Lt. Lynne Hawk, program director. "Participants may choose four of 18 topics offered and will spend four hours on each topic selected."

Topics include: introduction to Panfish, basic flyfishing techniques, introduction to bass fishing, boating basics, canoeing, kayaking, deer hunting basics, small game hunting techniques, turkey hunting basics, introduction to the shooting sports, introduction to handgun shooting and hunting, developing archery and bowhunting skills, basic camping and backpacking skills, outdoor photography, bird-watching, reading the woods, off-road cycling, developing wilderness survival skills and personal safety.

For a brochure and registration form, contact the West Palm Beach GFC Everglades Regional office at 5621-625-5126.

"We fill up fast," said Lt. Hawk. "Interested people should register immediately to avoid disappointment."

Laureate Gamma Zeta working with DHCAC to bring cultural arts to area children

Laureate Gamma Zeta, a chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, sponsored a Christmas Open House at the home of members, Nancy Carpenter, Jeanette Dexter and Janis Flisch.

The recipient of the benefit was Dolly Haid Cultural Art Center Theatre to help school age children of the area receive a cultural refinement of the arts.

The homes were decorated with huge Christmas trees and a Christmas Village at the Dexters and Flischs.

The Carpenter home featured an elegantly set Christmas table with an outdoor waterfall and patio arrangement along with a tour of the orchard hot house.

There was a surprise visit to the Lutheran Church where a short program was enjoyed by all which featured a youth group of singers who sang Christmas carols. Milton Carpenter sang "Silent Night."

The Christmas party for the chapter was enjoyed at the Flischs home, where the members exchanged gifts.
